HONOR COUNCIL

The Honor Council is composed of the Cadet Major, all Cadet Captains, and a faculty advisor.

Whenever a cadet has committed a misdemeanor which brings discredit to the honor of the Cadet Corps, he is brought before the Honor Council for a hearing. At this hearing all evidence, witnesses, and their testimonies are brought forth so that a just verdict may be reached. After the verdict has been reached, it is the duty of the Honor Council to assign judicial punishment to the cadet in question; however, before any official actions are made known the verdict and punishment is submitted to the Headmaster for his approval.

The Honor Council has almost unlimited powers in handling these matters; therefore, this group must be made up of capable, honest, and broadminded men. Men, who through their sound judgment, will see that justice is carried forth as it should be.
