With the debut of the 1951-'52 basketball season, the Carlisle courts were filled with a display of new and capable talent. Only two returning lettermen were included in the material that was soon to be molded by the capable and skillful guidance of Coach James T. Burch into an admirable and sporting ball club.

Inexperience resulted in a faltering entrance for the "Pivotteers," which was soon overcome through untiring determination and ever vigorous fighting spirit. They soon found themselves a frequent position in the win column, where the accounts of many of their games are listed.
