

TRAINING CADRE

This year, as in the past, the Training Cadre was a success. On September 6, 1960, the "rats" entered Carlisle, and it was up to the Cadre to govern and help them in their transition from civilian to cadet. For six weeks, the "rats" learned the plebe system, how to drill as a unit, and how to conduct themselves in a military way. It was up to the Cadre to instill in the "rats" a great amount of discipline, and it was up to the Cadre to make these boys realize what was expected of them here at Carlisle.

The REBEL Staff, on behalf of the Cadet Corps takes this time to congratulate the Training Cadre for a job well done.
