

TAPS . . .

And so, as slowly the last refrains of Taps die out, we all think of our past at Carlisle. A way of life never to be forgotten; a time of friendships never to be cast aside. But now, more than ever is the time to hold our heads high, walk proudly out into the world, and face its concepts with the confidence of Carlisle Men.