

RISHER RIFLES

Among the companies in the battallion at Carlisle, there is a unique company which consists of the best drilled men in the battallion. These men strive to perfect their skills in trick drill. Each day, they march to their drill area, and practice their movements, in the hopes of winning in State and National Competition.

Last year, the Risher Rifles placed third in the Nation in platoon drill, and placed third in squad drill. This year we look forward to even better accomplishments in Washington.

As for local competition, these men have stunned their competitors on the floor, and brought back many trophies for our library.

Under the outstanding supervision of Command Sergeant Major John Murray, and the fine leadership of Lt. Jim Grady, these men have proven their talents in trick drill competition.

The 1974 Rebel Staff proudly commends each individual for his effort and time put forth to make Carlisle the well known and outstanding school it is. Thank you, men.
