

FROM CAPS & GOWNS to the world AROUND

1. Rachael Hunt waits patiently to get onto the field. Rachael felt relieved once she got her diploma in her hand.

2. Hal Tate shows off his sporty shades. "I never thought this day would come," Hal said.

3. Ashley Chisolm, and Tiquia Clark stand among fellow graduates as graduation 2003 came to an end.

4. Valedictorian, Brittney Burkett, and Salutatorian, Mary Caroline Wilkinson, stop to take a picture before graduation started. Their speeches focused on overcoming adversity in the real world.

5. Former Juniors Amy Hartenburg and Heather Benton concentrate as the graduate's make their way down the aisle. "I had fun ushering, because I felt as if I were graduating," Amy said.

6. Mr. Pence, Mrs. Stroble, and Mr. Gale happily anticipate graduation. Each helped with the presentation of diplomas.

7. Harry Brown, wearing distinguished white gloves, quickly glances at the camera as he time approaches to walk onto the field. Harry anticipated using his JOSA skills in the real world.

8. The early morning light shines on Latorsha Bryant and Brandon Farmer. Latorsha helped to make year-book class a better place to be.

9. Andrea Maratto and Charles Hoffman smile nervously at the candid camera. Charlie achieved his goal of getting into the college of his choice, Cleuson, after only three and a half years.
