

With confidence and pride, junior Christina Crosby organizes the members of the DECA team as chapter secretary. "The struggle between keeping the team organized and keeping up with my daily activities became exhausting," Christina said.

Handling the dough and taking care of business is what senior, Sylvia McNeil is all about. Entrusted with all of the DECA funds, Sylvia made sure that bankruptcy never became a problem. "DECA gave me the opportunity to experience a business-like atmosphere, and it I took care of the cash flow," Sylvia said.

A second-year in DECA, Lon Bergen understands what it means to make it to the top. "DECA is a great opportunity to achieve in career advancement," sophomore Lon said.

Junior Syltra Stephens who wanted to get into International Business is the Vice-President of the DECA chapter. "I enjoyed being second in charge. DECA presented me with tasks that a normal business would have," Syltra said.

The advisor of the CCHS DECA chapter, Mr. Andy Kubik, gladly leads the team towards success. "DECA provides students the opportunity to develop their communication skills, interact with students from other DECA chapters, and gain a greater sense of responsibility," Mr. Kubik said.
