

Senior Ashley Williams smiles as she receives an amusing instant message from a classmate. "I really like the accounting class because it teaches me a lot about accounting and is helping me in a lot of areas as to what I plan to study after high school," Ashley said.

Seniors Aaron Jamison and Shannon Doubleday work hard at mixing up a cake. "I really enjoy being in culinary arts because I like to cook and plan to do a little catering when I get older," Aaron said. This class became well known for their great cooking skills.

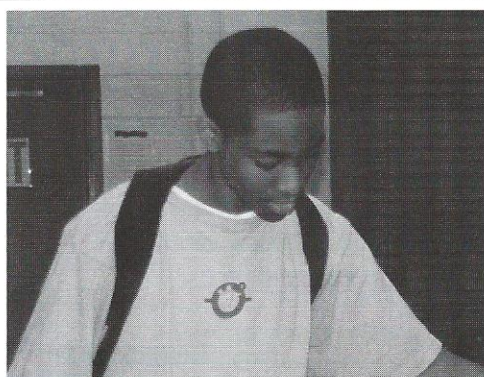

Cleaning up after a hard days work, sophomore Marcus Robinson tidies up the welding shop. "The best thing I like about welding is stick welding because it's easy to do, and after high school I plan to take on welding as one of my major careers," Marcus said.

Seniors Lorenzo Breland and Marcus Bryant try not to work too hard in their business computer class. "I was playing a game and almost got caught," Lorenzo said. "I was waiting for my computer to unfreeze because it's very slow at times," Marcus said.

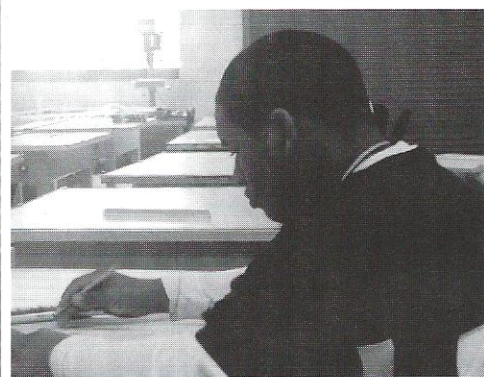

Junior Cody Drayton changes the tire on the car in his auto technology class. "Auto technology is helping me a lot because when in finish high school I plan to become a mechanic so I can help other people who may be in need," he said.

MARCUS 11

Junior, Marcus Johnson works hard on his invention project. "I believe that marketing can help me in many different ways especially in the industry I plan to make a living, the music industry. I'll know a lot about maintaining and controlling my money," Marcus said.

HELSEY 10

Sophomore Kelsey Jenkins concentrates as he tries his best to get a good grade on his test. "I really enjoy drafting because it is preparing me for the real world and at the same time helping me learn a lot more than what I already knew about drafting," Kelsey said.