

Sophomore Lakenya Yates, along with senior Phillip Davis and junior Keeshan Brown read a case study. "I feel that Youth Court is very educational. I think this way the students can learn from their actions and mistakes," Lakenya said.

Two Youth Court members sit down and discuss new material for the program. Deputy Bodison always assisted the students in with their problems.

Youth Court is a valuable program for this school's youth population. "Youth Court is a very educational program and it shows students what is right and wrong. It also helps students stay out of trouble," Lastenza Rivers said.

A Youth Court student prepares to recite his statement to his fellow members.

A group of Youth Court members gather around and discuss an important issue that might take place. The ended up solving the problem with smiles still on their face.

Youth Court members prepare for a case. "I'm in Youth Court because I want to help other people with their careers," Nickolye Glaze said.

