

Health Occupations Students of America, a program that would be beneficial to anyone who desires to go into the medical field. "We learned things like CPR and all the parts of the body," senior Sharee Peacock said.

HOSA is also a good reference for college and job applications. "I want to go to college to become a Neonatal nurse," senior Katie James said. On Thursdays and Fridays when the Health Occupations students wear their uniforms, they also get to go and work at the hospital. "I really like wearing the hospital uniforms, because it means that I don't have to search for something to wear in the mornings, and because they are very comfortable," senior Melody Roberts said. While at the hospital, the students also get to help take care of the babies in the maternity ward. Health Occupations is an excellent program to be a part of just because it focuses on the needs of others. This program assists hundreds of students and it definitely is well worth the work.

-Erin Stewart

Senior, Sharee Peacock

Sharee Peacock had just returned from helping out at the hospital. She wants to be an obstetrician after college. "Taking part in things now is a great experience for me," Sharee said.

Health Occupations For the Nation

Senior, Jennifer Kinard poses with her nurse uniform on. Jennifer wants to be a respiratory therapist after college. "I feel important when I help out," she said.

Senior, Lauren Sheeley smiles because she loves to help out at the hospital. "I want to become a nurse practitioner after college," she said.

Seniors, Rebecca Farley, Melody Roberts, Jennifer Kinard, and Lauren Sheeley stand for caring for people in need at the hospital. These students definitely put their heart into their work.