

A member of the Health Occupations crew, Melody Roberts poses just before going to the hospital. "I love helping people in need," Melody said. Melody wants to be a physicians assistant after she goes to college.

Senior, Katie James looks forward to her future career in the medical field. She experiences a piece of her adulthood while wearing her stethoscope around her neck. "I want to go to college to become a neonatal nurse," Katie said.

Senior, Brittney Polite, a member of the Health Occupations crew, pauses for a moment of silence early in the morning. "I hate to see people in distress at the hospital, and that's why I like to help out," she said. Brittney wants to be a registered nurse after college.

The group of Health Occupation underclassmen pose together with pumpkins. They do not get to wear the Health Occupations uniform until their senior year.