Tomorrow's Leaders Today

The responsibilities of Student Council began at the end of the 2002-2003 school year. Students who were elected for each class and office positions did their best to fulfill their obligations. "The best thing about student council was thinking of new and creative ways to make school more fun and exciting", Senior President Demond Elliot said.

The academic year got underway and so did the student council, beginning with Penny Wars for Relay for Life, which supported people that had Cancer. Student Council continued to become active throughout October with Career Awareness Week. "Doing activities to help others makes me feel great inside, especially helping with relay for life," Senior Representative Tracey Jones said.

Although the budget cuts affected the Student Council by creating a limit on supplies, they all stuck together to make a way. "Sometimes the budget cut affects us, because we sometimes don't have what we need and want to be a success, but we always make a way," sophomore Vice President Siedah Garrett said.
