

Preparing the ladder for the 2003-2004 yearbook, junior Maegan Causey makes fun of Mrs. Travis. "She always has weird ideas, but they usually work out. I always really enjoy working with her," Maegan said.

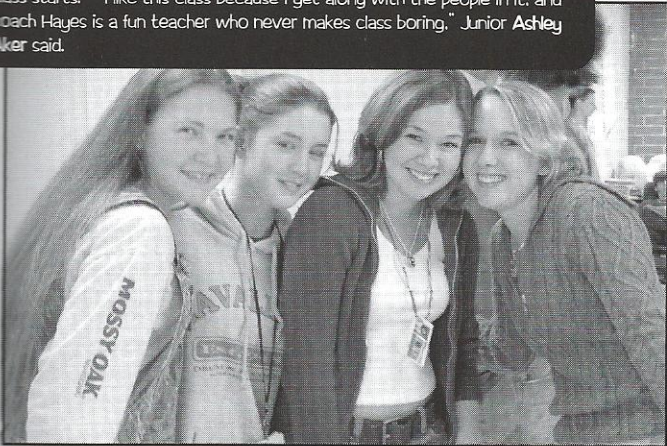

"I always look good, but today I wanted to dress to impress," Mr. Haynes said. Teachers and students were excited about the chance to show off their school spirits during spirit week.

"We both enjoyed making this yearbook. Even though we had to be strict at times we still had fun. We appreciated the staff writers' hard work."
 - Lauren Nettles, 11th
 - Sarah Gibbons, 12th

"I really look forward to waking up each morning to come to CCHS because of new experiences and opportunities," Mrs. Pawlak said. Teachers are important people, and that is why it is important that they love their job.

As 4th period begins, students crowd coach Hayes' doorway to talk before class starts. "I like this class because I get along with the people in it, and coach Hayes is a fun teacher who never makes class boring," Junior Ashley Aker said.

"I enjoy hanging around with my friends during lunch. It is a time to sit, relax and talk about how our day is going," senior Michelle Bullock said.

made