

CROWDING THE ENDZONE

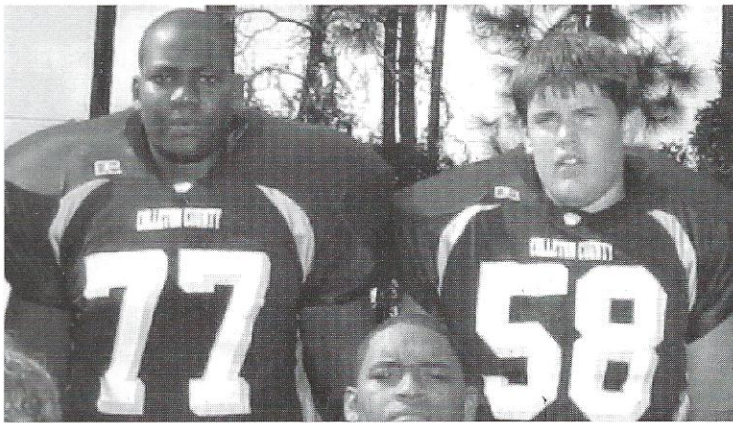

Playing with Determination

Students stormed the field for a chance to be on the Junior Varsity football team. Being a part of football made it easy for students to release stress. Besides that, some of the students thought about a much bigger picture. "One of my three positions on the field is safety, that is the last line of defense that the team has." Jerome Magwood said.

When the discussion of their future approached, many students who participated in the sport made plans for themselves after high school that involved their skills. Some wanted to pursue college sports, while some wanted to go pro right off the bat. "I plan to go to Clemson or the Citadel after high school. Both have strong football programs and are even stronger academically." sophomore John Saudners said.

The JV players prepare for their next game at the JV team pep-rally. "I feel good when I run touchdowns and I hope to play on varsity next year." Isaac Gadson said.

Coach Riley carefully scrutinizes the actions of the team. "I think they had a very successful season. They came together and worked really well," he said.
