

WE GOT SPIRIT, YES WE DO

CHEERING TO VICTORY

The cheerleaders showed spirit and revived our players. They pumped it up at football and basketball games as they carried Cougar pride. They danced and cheered the football and basketball team to victory. Our multi-talented girls also entertained and boosted our spirits while putting on stunts at the games. "I never get tired of yelling. It just comes with the excitement from the game," said junior Meagan Chaplin. Our girls don't have a competition squad this year, but look for one next year.

At every game our girls performed awesome stunts to keep the crowd alive. "The best part about cheerleading is stunting with Maegan, Toni, and Amanda, it's always fun," junior Lauren Moody said.

Along with the fun involved in these stunts, consequences followed. "If you're not careful with your topper she could get hurt," senior Toni Bloodworth said. Their stunts are done to counts, which help the girls to stay together. During their time at practice they reviewed cheers, arm motions, stunts, and worked on their flexibility. Cheerleading may not be considered a sport to some, but they put in just as much time and dedication as other athletes. Cheerleaders don't need a Spirit Week to be enthused, they acquire spirit through the want to have fun, be seen, and be heard.

4. Holly Hughes and Mamie Foreman

The cheerleaders wrote "Make the Seahawks Squawk" on the huge banner to intimidate their competition. They hold up the banner as the football players tear it down showing that nothing will stand in their way of victory.
