

Keeping tidy is atleast important to some people like Mrs. Bennett. It must be difficult keeping a place clean when some people couldn't care less if they make a mess, but she never got discouraged. "A clean heart leads to a healthy mind," Mrs. Bennett said.

While wandering the halls, Sophomore Nicolas Varner was caught in the act of a good deed. "I never mind doing what I am politely asked to do, but sometimes it makes me feel good to do it without being asked," Nicolas said.

Mrs. Harris has been a cheerleading coach for quite some time, so she knows what she is doing. There is a lot of dedication in cheerleading from the coach and the cheerleaders. "I love my girls," Mrs. Harris said.

Mrs. Lyons is always doing her job well here at the high school, but she has an even better one on the side, helping others. "I just help people when they ask me," Mrs. Lyons said.

"I can't believe this section deadline was completed so quickly. Being the Editor in Chief, I was on deadline and very grouchy all the time. I am extremely thankful Mrs. Travis and the editors were there to keep me together!"

-Maogan Causey, 11th

Being the good person she ought to be, junior Kendra Stephens, assisted a friend in opening her locker. "I always try to help when I can," Kendra said.

or money