

Each teacher gains a new perspective by increasing their education. "Life is a constant learning process with everything. Even in football, the one who doesn't continue to learn and develop is left behind and possibly doomed to fail before the whistle blows," Coach Russell said.

Coach Dale Loper impacts many children each year with life long lessons. "Fifty years from now it will not matter what kind of car you drove, what kind of house you lived in, or what your clothes looked like, but the world may be a little better because you were important in the life of a child," Coach Loper said.

Checking a student's homework, Coach George Smith conversates with senior Emma Johnson about her day. Many teachers took the time to care about their job and students. "I love teaching because I care and I love to educate others about history," Mr. Smith said.

Teaching the class comes easily for some. "I originally got my degree in math. After a couple of years, I decided to go back and take the education classes to become a teacher," Ms. Hood said.

Ms. Arelene Finney-el helps students plan for their future in her class. "With proper guidance, young people can accomplish feats that many believe to be unattainable," Ms. Finney-el said.
