

Why did you endure NJROTC?

"BLT was cool because that is where I am going to be when I join the Marines and the DI's were pretty hot!"

Shella Belring, 11th grade

"I liked NJROTC because I think that it was the best thing anyone could experience."

Melinda Marsh, 9th grade

"I liked NJROTC because it gave me a sense of pride and something to be a part of."

Mark Groves, 11th grade

Junior Amber Woodcock sways on the monkey bridge at USMC Recruit Depot Parris Island, SC. The NJROTC's Basic Leadership Training was a two and a half day Marine Recruit training experience. "It was awesome and it proves that girls are tougher than boys," Woodcock said.

The Color Guard marches skillfully at the Homecoming Parade. Sophomore Kevin McCubbins had been on the color guard for two years. "Color Guard was a really fun team to be on because I got to carry the national colors, it was a real honor," Kevin said.

The unarmed drill team strut their stuff at the Homecoming Parade. Sophomore Latavia Donaldson was the battalion Chaplain this year. "I like being on drill team because it teaches you to march better and our fancy routine is really cool," Latavia said.

LCDR Armentrout with senior Nicole Polanco at Basic Leadership Training in Parris Island. "The instructors were like fathers and role models to most cadets because of their undying love and devotion to the corps of cadets," Nicole said.

