

Setting Involved

Taking Charge

Student Council made it their goal to increase student involvement at school. The student council had meetings after school and decided what kinds of things that they could do to help our school. They also attended functions around the state to see how other schools improved their environment. Members helped to better our environment making signs. "I liked making the signs for Student Council, and I was really happy when I saw my sign hanging in the commons area," junior Meredith Foss said.

The biggest success that the student council had was planning the homecoming parade. They worked tirelessly with school administration and various groups and clubs to organize a funfilled morning for the student body. "SGA did an outstanding job organizing our first annual Cougar Homecoming Parade. It was a great start for a great Cougar tradition," Mr. Runyon said. Student Council members also made it possible for the student body to enjoy music while they dined in the commons area. They also picked up trays, cleaned the tables and cleaned the floors. They had a district rally November 1, 2004. Student Councils from other schools met in the commons area and discussed a wide variety of topics. The topics ranged from fundraising ideas, ways to improve the school, to how to get involved in the community. "I think the rally was a good idea, because it gave us a chance to talk to students from other schools, and we got some good ideas that students here may have never thought of," junior Leah Waters said.

-Amber Souza

"I think the rally was a good idea, because it gave us a chance to talk to students from other schools, and we got some good ideas that students here may have never thought of," Leah Waters, 11th grade

Senior Student Council members Chantel Washington, Nicole Polanco, and Porsha McMillian pose in their tackiest dress gear. The girls really showed that they had spirit by helping support school functions.

At a meeting in Student Council, Siedah Garrett, and other members decide what to do to help out the school. "I like being in Student Council and getting involved," Siedah said.

