

Fighting hard against her Stratford opponents, forward Selita Hills hits the ball out of the grasp of another girl. I practice with the team here at school, but when I'm home I usually just try to relax," Selita said.

MAKING IT COUNT

As their hearts raced and the concepts of basketball pressed their thoughts, the varsity girls basketball team prepared themselves for the game ahead. Basketball demanded a lot of dedication as well as patience amongst themselves and their team mates. Team work was among their top priorities. Each girl had their moment to shine. "There really isn't a best player because we each have something to contribute to the team," junior La'Kia Grant said. Working as a team made all the difference. Even if it meant pushing themselves to the limit, they always gave their best.
