

THEY SHOOT. THEY SCORE

Starting the season with high hopes of winning, the boys prepared for victory. Tryouts were held in early November to develop a team of champions.

"Basketball is what I have always loved to do," sophomore Jabree Salley said.

A lot of the players got the extra practice they needed over the summer. The practices prepared them for the upcoming season. "I played midnight basketball over the summer at the recreation center," sophomore Calvin Young said.

For some, basketball became a means of escape. It helped many people out. "Playing basketball helps me keep my grades up better than I use to," sophomore Deshaun Holmes said.

Showing off his skills, Kelvin Gant shoots a basket. Fortunately, his skills worked in the Beaufort game. "We all played as a team that night. That's why we are 8-4," freshman Kelvin said.

Taking on the job went to coach Dwayne. He did his best to make sure everything ran smoothly. "What I do to prepare my JV team for battle is work them extremely hard in practice and focus on fundamentals," coach George said.
