

Making it Big

Students Brace Themselves for a Brand New Year.

As the doors burst open, students filled the halls with excitement and laughter. For many, high school proved to be more than just books, tests, and mountains of work. It was about making memories, like scoring the winning touchdown, meeting new friends, and getting closer with old acquaintances. Friends were a big part of the high school life. Who better to share it with than someone that truly matters?

Old students returned and new ones wandered the halls with curiosity; each and every one ready to embark on a new and promising journey. Students prepared themselves to take on their chaotic and hectic schedules. They proved that they were ready to really make it big and make something of themselves. Hope, pride, and the will to succeed burned in each of their hearts as they proved themselves ready to continue their traditions of excellence. The dedicated staff strived to see that the year was the best it could possibly be.

- Amber Souza

