Sorry To Go.. Happy To Leave

All of the graduates' hard work finally paid off! As the former class of 2005 left high school in pursuit of higher education, many emotions flowed from the graduating class. "I was excited, anxious, nervous and sad at the same time," former senior Ashley Strickland said.

Graduating from high school meant the end of an era. That one monumental event changed the lives of over two hundred students in different ways.

"Graduation made me realize that the time had come for me to move on in life," former senior Josh Lyons said. From favorite teachers to best friends, the graduates remembered things that made high school memorable.
