

Vacations

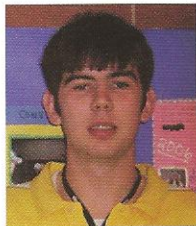

My favorite vacation memory

"I usually just hang out with my cousins in the Bahamas, but I've been to the caves and beaches there," Junior Margaret Cogswell said.

"I went to Illinois because I volunteer at a camp for children who are amputees (accidental or congenital). While I was there, I worked with many different children, and I feel like I really grew as a person," Junior Amanda Younggreen said.

"My family went to the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia and I surfed in an indoor Waterpark," Junior Chad Bloodworth said.

"My dad was in the military and so we traveled alot. Once we went to Cuba and I saw iguanas," Freshmen Amber Hilbrun said.

While visiting Canada with her family, she went kayaking to explore the various islands. "We about fell off a cliff into the freezing water when we were exploring, and laughed after it happened," Sophomore Heidi Schmidt said

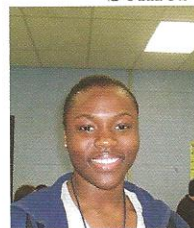

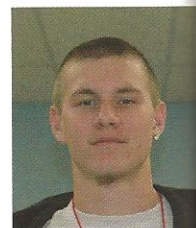

"I've been to 32 different states, some several times. I saw the Grand Canyon by flying over it and going down in it to the river below. We drove down into the Canyon to the bottom," Junior Kelli Dille said.

Moments

Embarrassing Moments

"My most embarrassing moment is when I was in middle school and we had an assembly in the gym and the bleachers were so full I grabbed a seat up on the stage with a couple of my friends. I was leaning back in the chair and all of the sudden, my chair broke and I hit the floor," Senior Josh Braswell said.

"I was at work and was looking at a guy while walking and I ran into shelf," Senior Dorothy Williams said.

"Right after Hurricane Charey hit when I still lived in Florida and my older sister and I were shaving our legs in the pool outside and the President flew over in his helicopter," Senior Heather Watters said.

"I climbed over the fence to get a softball....and my shorts got caught on something and ripped off," Junior Ashley Pangalangan said.

"When your stomach growls in the middle of a really quiet room and with guys when you sneeze and a booger pops out!" Sophomore Jennifer McCall said.

"When a Bee went in my flute while I was marching and it came out of the mouthpiece and stung my lips. I freaked out and everyone was looking at me funny." Freshmen Victoria Burk said.
