Giving it all you've got to get where you want to be

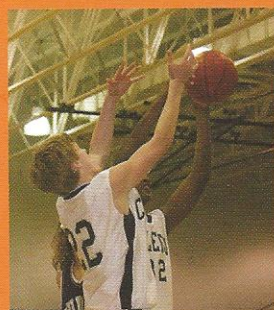

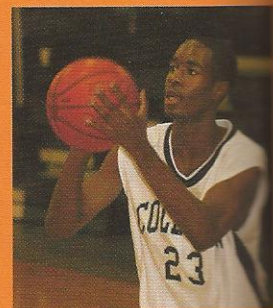

Junior Varsity is a preparation for the next level, Varsity. Our young men showed to be very promising. Over the course of their season they had many long, hard, and tiring practices. After everything was said and done, it was worth it. They made sure they let everyone see what they had to look forward to in the future.

"My favorite thing about how we play together is our amount of teamwork, we really get along good, like a family" freshman Kevin Bazzle said.

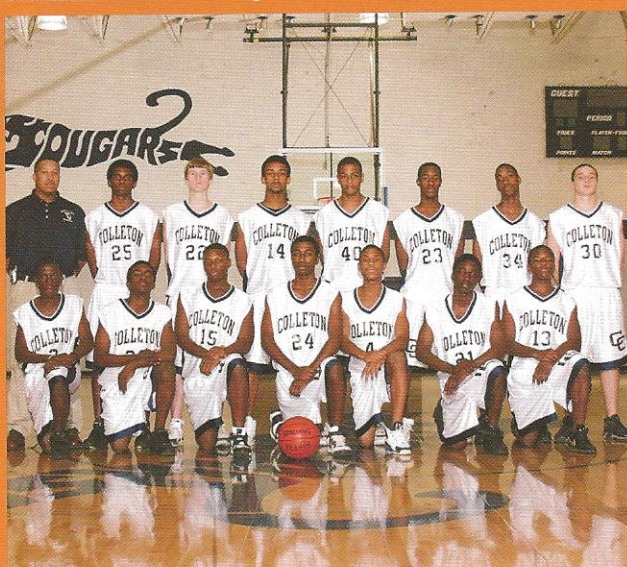

In fact they did show a great amount of teamwork to gain point after point on the score board. They worked hard, and it came through successfully. They are the prime example of where you can get after working endlessly for something you want.

Sophomore Dejon Murray gets set to take a shot for the team. "When someone comes out for basketball, you have to make sure you play hard everytime, hustle a lot, and play as a team, don't be scared to do anything," Dejon said.

Sophomore Andrew McAlhaney jumps to help protect the ball with his team mates. "As a team, we win together and lose together," Andrew said.

Sophomore Darren Campbell runs the ball down the court, looking for an open shot. "My favorite game would have to be when we played West Ashley because everyone came together to pull off the win," Darren said.
