

Bryan stood at his locker representing the messiness of it one morning before school. "I don't care how my locker looks at all," Bryan said.

"Messy"

Yikes! Smells like something died in there. Might not be a bad idea to throw away some of the stuff you don't use anymore, as in last Monday's lunch! You don't have to be Martha Stewart-y about it- they do say some clutter can be a sign of genius, but a little organization can't hurt. That way you'll be able to find the history paper you worked so hard on, the drumsticks you need for band practice and the latest episode of your favorite show your friend taped for you.

Justin Barra was showing off his messy locker. "My locker really stinks!" senior Justin said.

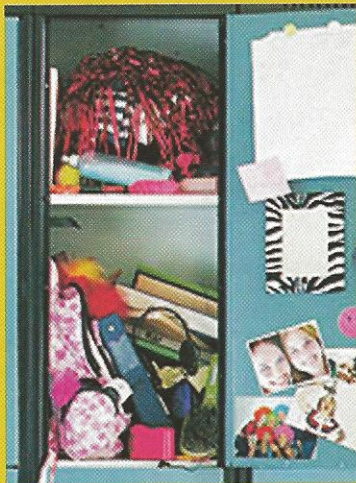

Junior Briana Wright tried to find her English paper one morning before school. "Most of the time my locker is messy, but I clean it up sometimes," Briana said.

Junior Jenna Light was proud to show off her messy locker one day during her lunch. "I just throw stuff in my locker because lockers SUCK!" Jenna said.

Kamen Gregorich stood at her locker during the changing of classes one day. "Most of the time my locker is clean, but some days it's just off," junior Kamen said.

Senior She'Neque Aiken got her lotion out of her locker for her friend to use. "My locker is the spot for everybody!" She'Neque said.

"Friendly"

The inside of your locker door reads like the Who's Who of Hollywood cuties. And don't forget the pics of your best buds and your precious pooch and all the phone numbers you've collected this year. If you received a grade for your social life you'd score an A+. Just make sure there's enough room between the hairspray and the nail polish to file a couple of textbooks.

Senior Isaac Narvaez talked with his friend Ashley after second period about her new shoes. "I put EVERYTHING in my locker," Isaac said.

Junior Shantisia Jarido spoke with one of her friends before school. "If you keep your house clean then your locker should be clean," Shantisia said.

Junior Clayton Geathers yelled to one of his friends down the hallway one morning before school. "I keep my mathbook in my locker all the time," Clayton said.

Junior Labrandia Johnson shows off her friendly locker during fourth period one day. "Me and my friend share my locker together," Labrandia said.
