

traditional [truh-dish-uh-nl]
-a continuing pattern of culture beliefs or practices

Homecoming

Homecoming was the time for students to show their school spirit both during the pep rally, and at the game. Most students and teachers went all out during the week by coloring their hair, painting faces, and dressing up in school colors. By the time Friday came around students were dying to know who won the spirit stick. When it was time, students flooded into the gymnasium for the pregame pep rally. After the pep rally, students prepared for the homecoming football game that was held later on that day. Escorted on the field by the NJROTC cadets, the ladies in the homecoming court eagerly anticipate the moment when the queen was announced. Wrapping up the game, Ebony Addison, senior, was crowned the Homecoming queen. It was shortly after that the class of 2012 was given the spirit stick for the second time, happening for the first time in the schools history.

