

TOP LEFT Freshman William Lolly does his "Hammer Time" from MC Hammer's "U Can't Touch This." William said he liked acting out, because, "The girls like it."

TOP RIGHT The moment Mr. Baretto leaves his classroom, sophomore Joshua Pentland is already standing up on his desk. While the class laughed, Joshua danced on his desk and he leapt into his seat the second the door opened and Mr. Baretto walked in.

LEFT While senior Kayla Howell is dissecting her pig in Ms. Sears' Biology 2H class, seniors Lauren Bishop and Sarah Pratz play with their pigs, making them talk. "I disrupt class every day," said Lauren Bishop, who was ironically in NHS.

BELOW Sophomore Jared Hess decides to disrupt Mrs. Gantt's Fall Play practice by planking across a desk. Jared showed that even the most well behaved students acted out sometimes, as he said, "I don't usually disrupt class."

Sophomore Logan Anderson enjoys a quick nap before he has to wake up and take a quiz in the first few minutes of his Global Studies 2H class. "Those few minutes helped me pass my quiz," Logan later said.

Junior Christina Tafta has become an "interrupción de la clase" during Ms. Clark's Spanish 2 class. Christina said this is pretty normal, because she would usually "scream and make funny noises."

Senior Jordan Varnadoe picks up his desk on a dare from another student in the middle of Mrs. Liles' Algebra 2 class, while Mrs. Liles' was gone. Right after, he sat down and acted like it never happened.
