

personable- [per-suh-nuh-buh 'l]

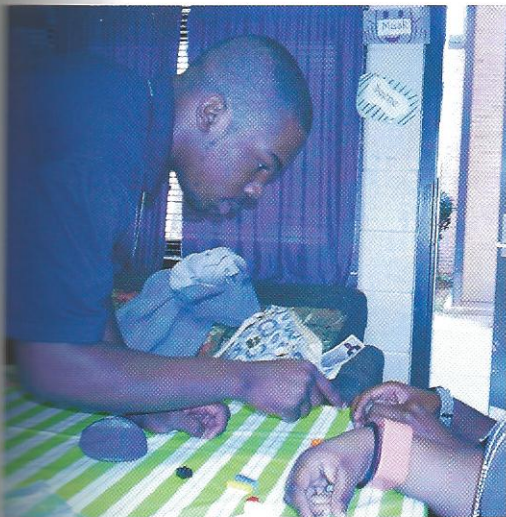

-having an agreeable or pleasing personality

FBLA

Senior Katelyn Ackerman is president of FBLA, Katelyn says, "I really liked being involved and putting things together. We're doing community service projects so I feel like I'm helping out!"

Have you ever wondered who might be the next Bill Gates or Steve Jobs? The members of FBLA are learning the ways to grow in importance the business world. "It helps future business owners prepare for the business world," informed, junior, Rainie Gordon. FBLA holds competitions for the participating schools to attend. FBLA focuses mostly on three main ideas: social, professional, and community service. With these three ideas they help the members develop themselves as better persons and to succeed in business later on.

TOP RIGHT Junior Da-Quanda Magwood is talking to her advisor about their most recent project. "Our most recent project is the princess project and were working together with other schools, it's really fun!"

BOTTOM RIGHT The FBLA members come together to discuss why they joined the club. Junior Francis Terrapin explained, "I had numerous classes with the Advisor for FBLA, and he encouraged me to join."

TOP LEFT Sophomore Tristen Pontoon is making different crafts for an FBLA project. He worked very hard to show that he planned to become a future business leader!

BOTTOM LEFT Juniors Natarsha Bright and Rainie Gordon are taking part in a meeting. Natarsha said, "I'm really glad I joined FBLA. We do a lot of community service, and I really like that."

