

mytheatricalstory

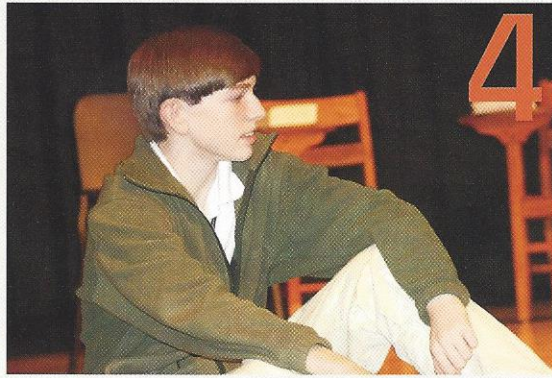

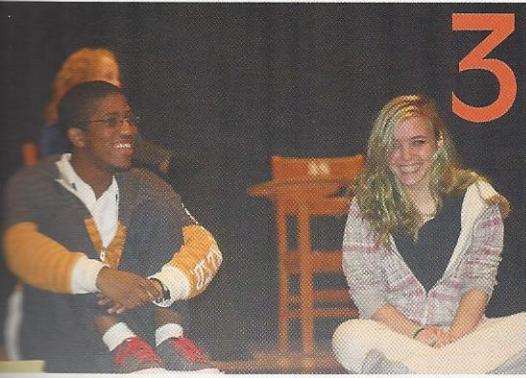

1

Junior Patrick Lyons enjoys drama because he can be as goofy as he pleases. Patrick also explained, "I can put myself into my character and do what I want with it."

2

Senior Kirkland Bennett gets into her character on stage. When she thought back to her freshman year she said that "drama was a growth experience. It changed me from a shy freshman to a more outgoing student."

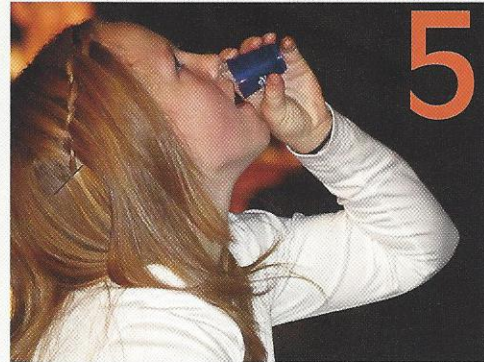

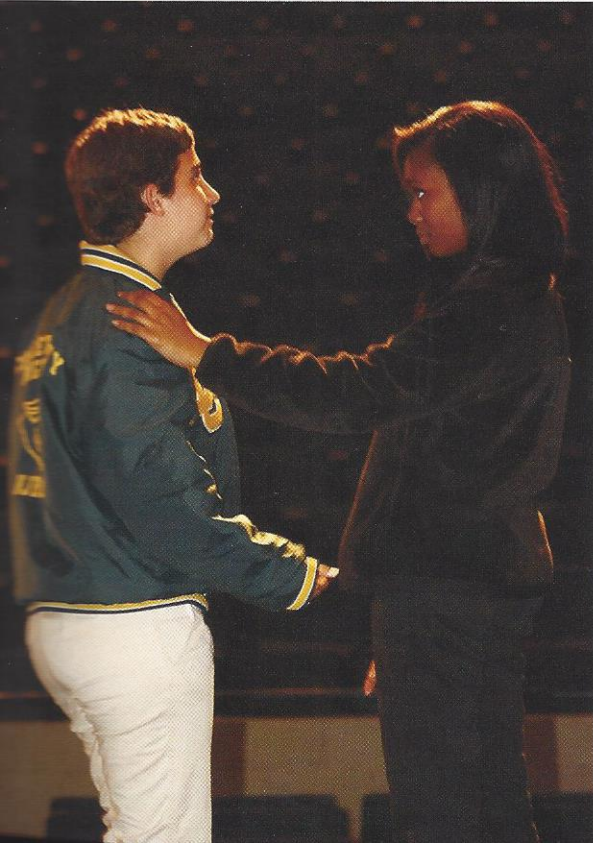

3

Senior Leon Williams and sophomore Michaela Sexton laugh as they mess up one of their lines at practice. "Memorizing lines isn't hard. You learn most of it during practice," Michaela said.

4

While practicing for the fall play, freshman Matthew Crosby shares, "if no one comes back from the future to stop you, how bad could it be?"

5

Freshman Brittney Risher pretends to drink during a skit at practice. "Dress rehearsal was really fun. We were successful," Brittney exclaimed.

"Drama helps teens do something outside of school that is creative." -Ms. Gantt