

Senior Editors

Madison Lucas

"Being in yearbook for four years has taught me discipline, as well as better writing, social, and visual art skills. Without my journalism class, I would not be as involved with my school. I am thankful for the talented writers and photographers that have trickled their way into and out of my class. Thank you all for providing me with an amazing high school experience."

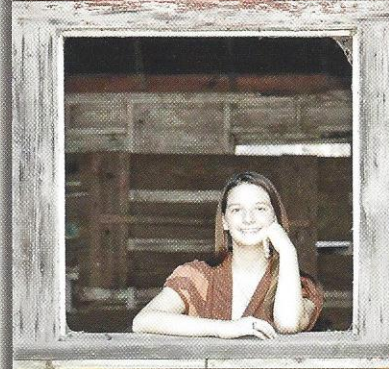

Emily Hiott

"Through the years spent in high school so much has changed yet then again so little has changed. The memories that I have made with my classmates are irreplaceable. I truly believe that everything happens for a reason and to have these individuals brought into my life has become a true blessing. The friendships I've gained are impossible to replace. To leave CCHS with so much knowledge gained over the years is amazing, but to leave with all of the great friendships and memories I've made is unexplainable in the greatness of it all."

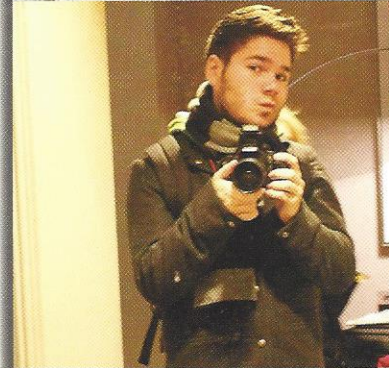

Emily Stone

"Goodbye seems too formal for people I've been going to school with forever. None of us are the same person from freshmen year and that's just mind blowing. I couldn't ask for a better class to graduate with. I know we'll be going our separate ways, but once a cougar, always a cougar."

Halie West

"Being on the yearbook staff has been an amazing experience! I've enjoyed getting to know the rest of my staff. I've enjoyed everything that I've learned from being on staff and the friendships I've made with everyone. I will definitely miss being apart of this amazing group next year!"

Logan Anderson

"Yearbook and Journalism have both become an important part of my life. Being involved in it every year has made me feel that I've contributed something to the student body, and it has even influenced my current career decision. I also couldn't have asked for a better yearbook family, and I will truly miss them all."