

Boys Soccer

World renowned female soccer star, Briana Scurry, once said, "A champion is someone who does not settle for that day's practice, that day's competition, that day's performance. They are always striving to be better..." Several players on the CCHS Boys Varsity soccer team have a similar mindset as Scurry. Sophomore Brandon Bright stated early on, "I want to win. I just want to win as much as we possibly can," In the past, the boys have had very successful seasons and did this year as well. The frequent practices and time spent around each other have created a close knit relationship which increases the compatibility and teamwork on the field.

For some athletes, college sports are not ideal. For junior Cody Coursen, he would like to play ball in college but doesn't have the time and has decided to participate in intermural soccer.

Ryan O'Quinn is included in the majority of returning members to the CCHS Boys Varsity Soccer team. One of his best skills is running the ball up and down the field.

boys varsity soccer

At the conclusion of warm ups the team huddles together to discuss how practice will go for the day. At the end of the huddle "COUGARS!" is always shouted to bring the team up in spirits.

Coach Shane Fidler looks on to his athletes stretching. Toe touches shown by Collin Thomas, freshman, help stretch the entire leg and help to increase speed and reduce muscle pulls.

Before ball practice can begin warm ups and stretching take place. Usually, the team divides between two lines to complete the exercises.

