"I love softball because it always keeps me active and engaged throughout the season," shared sophomore Kelsey Reeves.

According to freshman Samera Wright, "Softball is my whole life. It's everything to me. I don't do anything else besides softball."

"Going to conditioning and learning from experienced varsity players was my favorite part of preseason," stated freshman Samera Wright.

Throughout the course of the season, the junior varsity softball team practiced diligently and gained more experience as players. The girls began conditioning in the early fall and resumed conditioning and practicing throughout the season. Under Coach DeWitt, the girls practiced harder than ever to leave no room for error. Though softball is a very time consuming sport, somehow players manage to stay in high academic standing in order to be able to participate in the sport. Though difficult at times, softball players know that giving up is never an option and they will do whatever it takes to be the best at what they do.

Sophomore Makayla Hunt smiles as her stance is critiqued, "this season, I hope to improve not only as a player, but as an individual. Softball helps me budget my time and keep my grades at their best."

"When I'm on the field, it's like a whole other world for me. Softball helps me to keep my mind off of things and just enjoy doing what I enjoy most!" says freshman Ashlyn Rawls.

Freshman Ainsley Rushton plays softball because it's fun and it's just something that she's always done. "My favorite part is just being a part of the team, but I love meeting new people and becoming like family with my teammates," she comments.

Freshman Jamoni Sanders works on her hitting stance and follow through in the cage, "softball season is my favorite time of the year because I get to do what I love best with my awesome teammates."
