

DRILL & DISCIPLINE//

"Rifles Rule, Sambres Soar, and Flags Fly."

DETERMINED//

Freshman Alexis Basler stays to continue practicing to get the drill down, refusing to give up. Alexis is the definition of determination.

DEDICATED//

Freshman Christina Manigo says, "NJROTC is my life; I don't know what I'd do without it. The cool uniforms are just a bonus."

FAMILY //

NJROTC offers structure: They support each other, care for each other, and learn from one another, as if they are one big, happy family.

When Sophomore Jamell Wiggins was asked how NJROTC has impacted his life, he explained, "NJROTC has helped me with my discipline, but has also impacted how I view life." Jamell's interest in joining was sparked at home. He says, "My family influenced me to join," thought he also saw the opportunity to improve himself overall: "Not only (did I join because of family) but also to make myself a better person. Other than that I saw it would be a great opportunity."

BOTTOM: NJROTC Color Guard presents the colors at Homecoming.

LEFT: Sophomore Kristopher Warren escorts Freshman Beyonce Johnson at Homecoming.

TOP RIGHT: Senior Daquan Manigo shows his confidence during practice with the NJROTC Athletic Team.

BOTTOM RIGHT: The Unarmed Drill Team marches steadily in practice.

BELOW LEFT: As devoted future Color Guard these freshmen learn and practice how to present the colors.

