

JV BASEBALL

Despite a rough patch at the beginning of the season, the Colleton County JV Baseball team has pushed through. As each player grows more confident in their abilities both on and off the field, it really shows in their performance. The boys also work together and help each other during both practices and games. Head coach Jake Jacobs says, "It has been a season with a large learning curve. We have made many improvements on several aspects of the game." While there are a few players who stick out to coach Jacobs, he believes that everyone is trying their hardest and that's what he looks for most.

The JV baseball teammates and coaches watch the game intently, shouting supportive words when necessary, but always being careful to not distract those on the field.

The Colleton County Cougar JV Baseball team huddle together before their game to devise a plan on how to beat the opposing team, Beaufort. Joking around and hyping each other up before a game has become so common it's almost ritual.

Freshman Benjamin Kennedy (#13) catches the ball after the opposing batter swung and missed.

Top: Sophomore Mason Jolly (#14) throws a curve ball at the opposing batter as fellow teammate Jackson Bell gets into position to catch the ball.

Bottom: Sophomore Devar Frasier (#15) clears his mind and focuses all of his attention on the ball as it cuts through the air towards him.

Sophomore Jermaine Parker (#11) stands ready at bat with hopes of getting a homerun on the front of his mind.
