

GOLF

Junior Jim Bailey, the Tiger Woods of the team, lines up for a shot of the game. Understanding the terrain, angles, force, and resistance are all part of the game of golf.

Golf has been around since 1497. The sport as we know it originated from a game played on the eastern coast of Scotland. Now in 2018, Colleton County High School has celebrated the best golf season since 2015. Stances, swings, grips, drives, and putts have been under close scrutiny for improvement through practice and concentration. Our Cougars made a tremendous comeback, working hard for new coach, Mr. Chris Lewis.

CCHS Golfers (L to R) Jim Bailey (11), Ben Crosby (10), Dalton Moore (11), Anthony Chapman (10), Anthony Vance (9) wait for their opponents to show so they can dominate them on the field.

Drives get them to the green, then players tap into their calm: 1. Jacob Miron practices putting before competition begins. 2. Anthony Vance uses skill and patience to knock the ball in hole to make par. 3. Ben Crosby putts himself to victory against Berkeley.

1. Ben Crosby says, "Knock the ball in the hole, Tiger." 2. Jim Bailey started playing golf for Colleton County this school year: "I have always wanted to play golf competitively in high school, so I'm living out my dream." 3. Anthony Chapman explains his focus for improvement: "I started when I was eight, and my biggest challenges on the field are overthinking and concentrating too much." 4. Jacob Miron explains his motivation: "I started playing for the high school because my dad was a pro in Massachusetts, so I want to follow in his footsteps."
