

Spanish is a hard language to master. Through educational videos, songs, and projects, students are able to learn how to have a conversation with others to how to give directions and know the difference between preterite versus imperfect verbs. Students also get to learn about the culture, food, and art of holidays. Students get to know the different kinds of foods that are made and the different ways that someone dresses on a regular day or holiday. Students also learn about the seasons that are celebrated throughout the year. One holiday that students learned about was Dia de Los Muertos (Day of the Dead). Students cut out and colored skeletons or musicians and learned what happens throughout the day when you remember someone that is important to you.

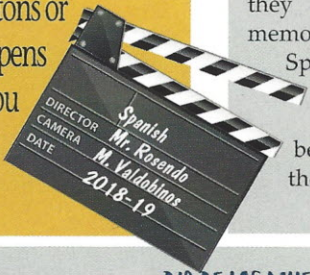

Spanish

THE MORE YOU EXPLORE, THE MORE YOU'LL KNOW

DIA DE LOS MUERTOS

Dia de Los Muertos is a holiday that celebrates someone that has passed away in your family. It is not a holiday to mourn them, but rather to show that they will forever be in your memories. Students from the Spanish classes decorated different Day of the Dead skeletons to show the colorful beauty of the ancestors when they have been remembered.

DIA DE LOS MUERTOS ART

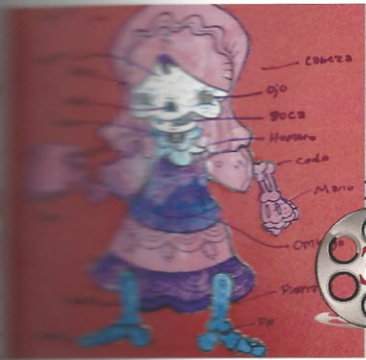

Mr. Rosendo hung up his students' finished drawings so that anyone who came in his classroom can see what they did for Dia de Los Muertos.

LABELING THE HUMAN BODY

Students from Mr. Aguero's class pointed out the human body using the Spanish vocabulary they learned.

HARDWORKING STUDENTS

(Left) Junior Liana Kornaherns works hard on her art, cutting carefully so that it comes out nicely.

(Far Left) Junior Sutton Behie poses happily with her finished project, showing off her colorful Day of the Dead musician.

DAY OF THE DEAD PROJECT

