

Winter Percussion

BEATING THE COMPETITION AWAY

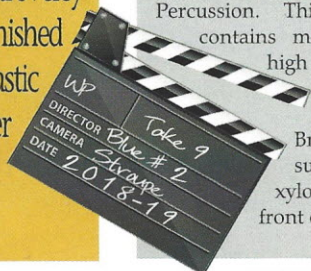

The Colleton County Winter Percussion is an activity for students that are involved with band and wish to continue their passion for music. In this particular activity, they learn how to perform at different venues and work with instruments that are only in the percussion family. Under the direction of Mr. Gary Stroupe, the Winter Percussion dominated their competition in the state. This year, their show is entitled, "Persephone". The story of Persephone is an ancient Greek myth by the Greeks to explain the seasons of the year. Based on the Greek myth, the Winter Percussion portrayed the tale as a controversy between a mother and a daughter. They finished the season as champions for the Scholastic Percussion Class of the Carolina Winter Percussion Association!

FOR THE FIRST TIME

Sophomore Bradley Westbury has been a part of Winter Percussion for a total of two years. Recently, he became a member to a new and elite group called: Charles Towne Percussion. This percussion group contains members ranging from high schoolers to young adults. Their show is entitled: "Totem". Bradley plays instruments such as the marimba and xylophone to help form the front ensemble in the group.

WHY WINTER PERCUSSION?

Senior Felicity Steward says, "Winter Percussion is definitely a great experience and it is a great way to meet new people! I like that it helps me to continue performing!"

HAIL PERSEPHONE!

For her first and last year at Colleton County High, Senior Alexis Gilliland performs as the Greek mythology character: Persephonee.

OUT WITH A BANG!

Senior Jim Bunton and Freshman Catherine Bunton (left) give the audience a knowing grin at the close of a winning performance. Senior Lorenzo Hall (right) says, "I joined Winter Percussion because I love percussion, and I wanted to further my education in music."
