

Meeting the Challenge Meeting the Challenge

CPA students strive to sharpen their minds.

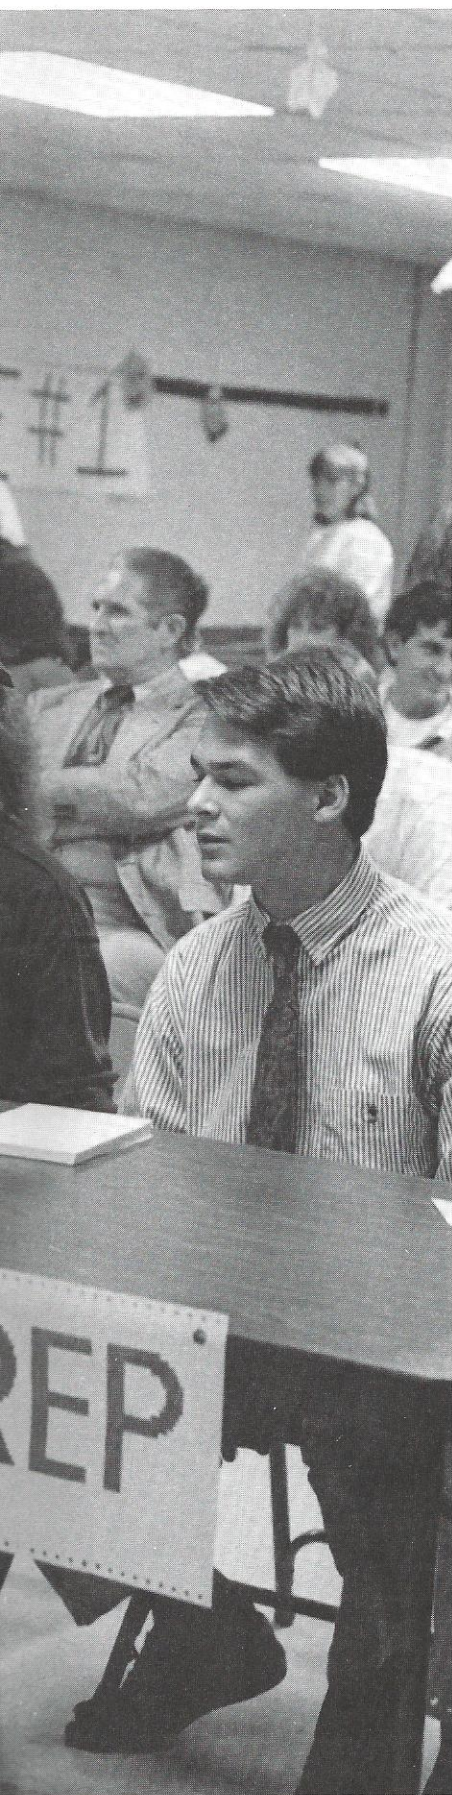

Leadership, character, and scholarship are qualities needed for membership into the National Honor Society.

Every spring juniors who participated in school activities and maintained a B average are accepted into the National Honor Society. The primary responsibility of this organization is to furnish student assistance whenever it is needed. "It was a privilege to be accepted into the National Honor Society. This accomplishment was something to be proud of," responded Archie Murdaugh. The new 1990-91 N.H.S. members are Dori Futch, Virginia Greenwell, Shelley White, Lee McConnell, Laurie Steele, Kristy Godley, Mike Padgett, Ian Saunders, Archie Murdaugh, Daniel Strickland, Kevin Dantzler, Robby Baggett, and Paige

Fletcher.

The 1990-91 Academic Bowl was hosted by Colleton Prep. this year. The Academic Bowl invited representatives from nearby independent high schools. This year's Colleton Prep. team consisted of Kristy Godley, Mike Padgett, Ian Saunders, Robbie Padgett, Randee Ritter, Anne Clamp, Dawn Burros, Holly Davenport, and Tina Patel.

These dedicated students met twice a week to review questions that may be asked in the Academic Bowl competition. Mr. Quarles prepared students for this event. Ian Saunders commented that, "Probably the most rewarding aspect of being a member of the Academic Bowl team is the competition involved — you also pick up a few interesting facts along the way."

In welcoming new members to the National Honor Society, the inductees are asked to stand during the candlelight ceremony. This honor is given to those students who have excelled in scholarship and leadership abilities.

Only top students are chosen to participate in the Academic Bowl. Randee Ritter, Kristy Godley, and Mike Padgett review their notes as they patiently wait for the competition to begin.