

SENIORS

Friends Are Friends Forever.

On August 26, 1991, thirty seniors entered the CPA hall-ways to begin their last year of high school. Although academics were on the minds of all seniors, they were also thinking of the other aspects of senior life. The football players had high expectations for their last year as CPA War Hawks; and all the seniors daydreamed about senior picnic day, privileges, and above all else, graduation.

However as the year progressed, they realized that academics were going to be a very real and strong part of their last year. It was with this realization that the seniors forgot all the differences of years gone by and pulled together.

Together they survived Canterbury Tales and term papers for Mrs. Linder; they helped each other prepare for the dreaded SAT and AP exams.

As freshmen they had entered their first year of high school as thirty individuals; but as Seniors, they had finished high school as one team. And as the end approached, each senior took time to remember the past four years of his life. These were friendships never to be forgotten. For after all, true friends are friends forever.

Kevin Dantzler, Donna Stringfield and Tommy Carroll catch up on the latest happenings with each other during a rare free moment.
