

Dodd Hulsey, Hannah Huffines, and Erin Dutton work on a science project that the class made.

Who says school can't be fun? Karen Fischer and Dodd Hulsey enjoy playing computer games.

Talking on the telephone seems to be one of the favorite pastimes of Laura Peters.

Mrs. Hammond gives extra help in Algebra to Becky Sineath during lunch.

The eighth grade could always be found working hard. Whether they were inside or outside the class, they gave each other a helping hand. They built a giant telescope in their class. John Street said, "Building our Newtonium Reflecting Telescope made us work as a team."

