

Talon and War Hawk Staffs

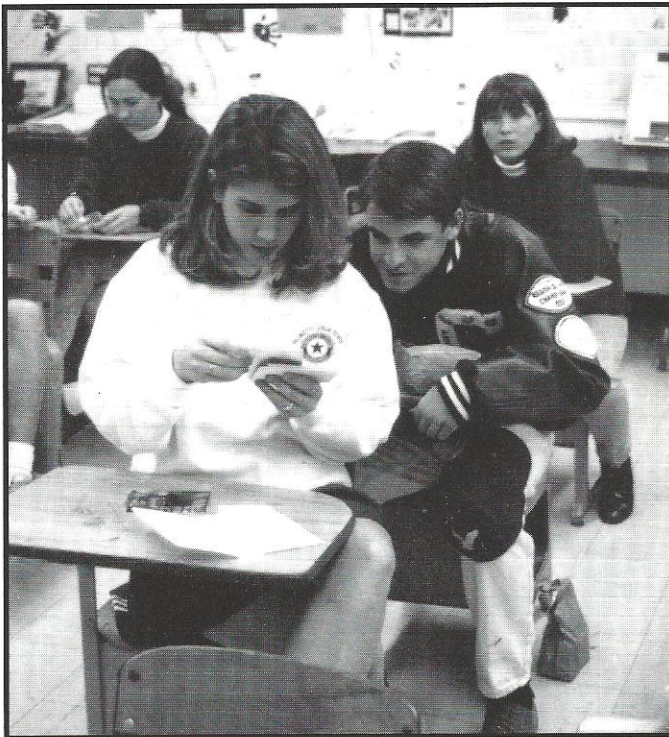

Putting together a yearbook is not an easy task. The deadlines arrive before the middle of February, which makes for a hectic autumn and winter. Throw in a late-arriving computer, new layout procedures, an advisor on emergency leave, and only four staff members in the journalism class, and one might wonder how the book ever gets finished.

Fortunately, Mr. Jack Young from Jostens visits frequently to help solve problems. And this year's staff also makes sacrifices after school: Ginger Speaks plows through computer layouts; Jennifer Beach coordinates portrait sessions; Ashleigh Padgett learns how to draw layouts (with Garnett Johnston's help); and Whitney Holmes stops by when possible. In addition, Nicole Robertson (with Christy Fagnoli assisting) attacks most of the photo assignments; Melissa Craven manages the finances; Ellen Herndon and Melanie Hoat valiantly organize class portrait days; and Cara Valentine—well, Cara smiles and rounds up the organization for last-minute photos.

With the book's arrival in the spring, most of the hassle and problems are forgotten. And hopefully, the moments relived on the yearbook pages will remind students to remember the times, whether they were good, bad, embarrassing, or just another day at CPA.

Picture Perfect. Ashleigh Padgett and Matthew Bryan look for pictures that have neither Christy nor Cara in them.

Shutter Bug. Besides her role as student, athlete, scholar, annual staff member, and student council representative, Ginger Speaks is also an accomplished sports photographer and videographer.
