

Outstanding year in and year out for its all-important religious and social work, the Y. M. C. A. is always recognized as one of the most widely influential and beneficial institutions on the campus, and this year has been no exception. Under the leadership and guidance of President Jim Owens and Graduate Secretary Shaw Smith, the Y has done much toward furthering a Christian atmosphere among the students as well as in the community as a whole.

Perhaps the main reason for its broad influence is the fact that the Y is one of the most inclusive of all the student organizations. Every student is a member, and as such is entitled to all of the many privileges afforded by the national and local associations, and is invited to take an active part in any phase of Y work in which he may be interested. This work at Davidson is very diversified, being divided into thirteen separate branches, each of which is under the direction of a student leader who is exceptionally well qualified to lead in that type of work. These heads of various departments compose the Y. M. C. A. cabinet, which is a general supervising board.

The actual executive work of the Y is handled by the Graduate Secretary and by the Student President, who is elected by the student body from the members of the Senior class. The working out of the budget and directing the policies of the association are taken care of by the Y Board of Control, a group of students who are elected by the student body for those particular duties.
