

Back To School

Is Danny really taking his Junior year seriously?

Once again summer ended as August rolled around. Yes, it was time to face the reality of a new year. To some, this brought excitement, for they had plans of making good grades or winning those games. To others, going back to school meant hard work and frustration. They knew to stay on top, studying would be necessary. However, many just looked forward to the good times, the new faces, and the friendships the new school year would bring.

Starting off good, these two girls are paying attention during story time.

During one of the first football games, Coach gives Joey some advice.
