

JENNIFER,

All through life some people choose to lead, some people wait for things to happen while others make things happen.

We have watched you grow from our sweet little baby girl to a mature, very special young lady. You have always spread laughter and joy in all situations. As you make your journey into your new future keep your sense of humor.

No matter when, what or where you are, we will always be your best friends, biggest fans and always ready to stand by you. You will always be "Daddy's" Little Girl. Life does not promise to be fair. It only promises to live and die. Live each day to the fullest, face all your future challenges in stride as you have done in the past and your accomplishments will be rewarding.

Congratulations to you on your Graduation Day. Good Luck in where ever your future leads you. Always keep God with you, He will lead and protect you. We Love You Very Much.

Love Always,
Daddy, Mom, Chris and Kevin
