

Chris,

We watched you grow from our little buddy into a fine young man. Hopefully you continue on that path. The days are moving too fast, and before we know it you will be off to college. Continue the good work and remember we love you every minute of every day. You will always be our little buddy. And remember we are proud of you.

Love always,
Mom & Dad
xo

Chris,

This world offers us as many opportunities for failure as opportunities for success, do not be afraid of either. It is by way of trial and error that we learn. You must now decide for yourself what you consider to be success. Remember, success and money are not always related. Do not look for foot-steps to follow, instead create your own path and you will then find true happiness. It is an honor to know you.

As always your Uncle,
Joey

