

Varsity Volleyball

After enduring four hour long tryouts and two hour practices during the summer, the varsity volleyball team was ready to play this season. Through the first few games the girls learned how to work together and pull out a victory.

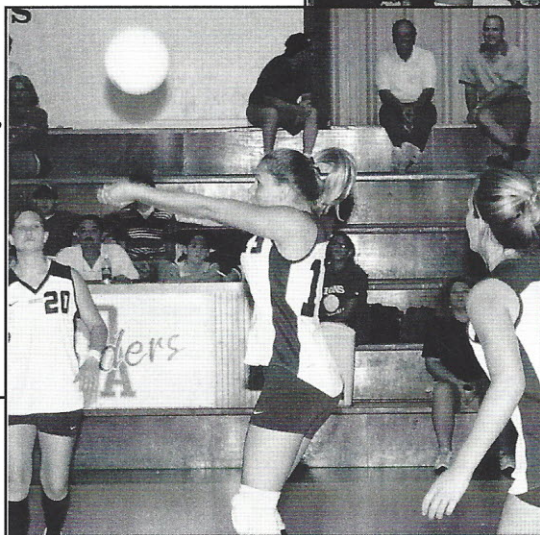

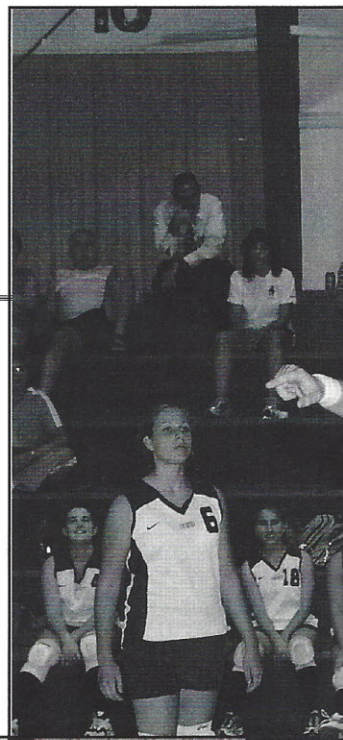

From the second-year rookie to the fifth year veterans, the team had a wide range of talent that it had not seen in years. With strong leadership and cooperation, the girls came together to win a few games.

By the end of the season the varsity volleyball team had hopes of going to the state playoffs. And after much uncertainty received an at large bid to the State Tournament. Unfortunately, the team played two games and were out of the Tournament. The winning season however, left them

"Nerves of steel...guts...
That's what little girls are made of."
