

CHARLIE NICOLE MAXWELL

Time has passed so quickly, just a short while ago you were my little helper in Maxville Variety Center. You thought your job was to make sure you mixed all of the different size nails together. When you thought you had mixed them good enough, you would start on the bolts. As time passed, you grew up to take on different endeavors. I have watched you grow into a young lady. Always keep your goals in front of you, don't be scared to reach for the stars. You can do it because you are daddy's girl.

Love Always,
Daddy
