

As the advertisements say - "You've come a long way, baby", and John C has done just that. In a very few years, our school has grown from an embryonic institution in a borrowed building to a healthy, energetic academy housed in several buildings on its own campus.

Many supporters and friends have contributed to the well-being of the Academy, and we do not minimize their help. But there would be no Academy at all if it had not been for the foresight, the determination, and the dedication of that group of people whom we now salute - our Board of Directors. They have supported the school with their hearts, their minds, their hands, and their pocketbooks. We thank you.
