

Each generation has added its signature to this record of time. Some generations have dealt harshly with its beauty; some have added immeasurably to the face of the land. On this 200th birthday of our country, we add our thanks for her glorious past, and our prayers for an equally glorious future.